“ I'll always remember my uncle/"nino"/godfather..."Big Marcy" as a fine example for me, of a man of quiet strength, compassion, love and wisdom. My uncle was a hard worker, great supporter, had the knowledge to fix just about anything and always had the sensible answer when I would go to him for help and advice. I thank you Marcy, for being my nino, for taking all those busy times to put aside your tools, get out from under the hood your car or truck , put down your newspaper, or the tv remote and to hear me. I thank you for all those times you helped me, my mom and David. I thank you for including us in your family vacations and outings. I'll always remember you from my youth, relaxing in your black leather recliner, wearing a striped shirt, having your beer, watching your Saturday shows, listening to Chuck Berry, Fats Domino, Ike & Tina Turner, James Brown, Little Joe and La Familia, and all the others that you loved listening to. I remember you busy, but happy and relaxed . I only wished I had your same interest, back then, in going to an auto parts shop or a Lumberjack/hardware store, when I went along for the ride. But, the ride with you was good enough. You meant more to me than you probably ever knew. You were my main father figure in my life and I'm going to miss you. You taught me a lot, I learned eagerly from you...wondering, how would Big Marcy handle this...? Thank you for being in my life, I can hope that I made you proud as much as I was of you. Rest in peace now, Marcy. I love you. I know I've gained another guardian angel.
