“ I remember the first day I met you I was nervous cause this was my first time being in a program we both had our little babies. The same day I came we talked all night talking about what ppl we knew lol crazy small world it is. We were roommates for a while until you moved in with someone who can help you more. I cherish those days anel. Once again we I saw you where I live it's crazy how I just saw you a few days before we both said hi to each other. I always remember you anel your beautiful smile and generous heart you had. I love you always rest peacefully my friend. Until next time.
