“ I never had to worry when you were around since you know that Marty has a good habit of injuring himself or falling asleep. I know he could stress you out at times when he holored but sometimes he still yells for you. I don't have my working buddy so it's hard to go to the yard now. Haven't been there since you passed and Steve went two days after you. It's funny because he said your always hiding from him. And now you're stuck together. I hope you're ok. I wish I would have sent him earlier to check on you. I can't change that. Im sorry. And Im sorry to your family. I should have noticed that to much time had passed since you had called last. Im used to you always blowing up the phone. Im proud of you and I miss you so much friend.
