“Connie was my oldest sister, she was short, crazy, loud but I love her so. may the rest of your trip be glorious. I will miss my dear dear sister!!!!!!

" . . . blessings aren't just meant to be enjoyed - they're meant to be used and shared with those who have less. The Christian faith teaches us that on this day a child was born so that we might have eternal life. And at the heart of many of the world's great religions is the idea that we're all better off when we treat our brothers and sisters with the same love and compassion that we want for ourselves."

“Grandma I can't even explain how broken my heart is. I'm so thankful that I was able to spend these last four months with you. I will forever cherish all our our memories especially you being able to spend my special day with me. You will forever be in my heart and I will always admire what a strong women you are. I love you grandma and please help me get through this tough time.
