“ Mr. Reeves was the official caretaker of the many old windows in our really old house. I don't remember when we first met, but I'm guessing it's been 10 years. Whether it was blistering hot or freezing and foggy, he showed up, on time, with a cheerful confidence that was both charming and inspired trust. We never worried about leaving and giving him a key. He called me "Sis". I believe that is a part of his culture as a JW—he addressed me with a term both respectful but fond and familiar. I can still see his kind face and crinkly-eyed smile. It is unbelievable to fathom that he is no longer here with us. My heart-felt condolences to his family. Mr. Reeves had a presence that was felt. I know you miss him sorely; know that others share that missing with you.
