Jessica is in the hands of the Angels, now, as they begin healing her desolation. She can only know now, that she was deeply loved, but her own eyes would not let her see it. We pray, she will be embraced and loved by the Angels touching her young soul. Let her cry all her tears in the arms of the Blessed Mother whose Love knows no boundaries, and may Jessica at last be comforted.

“ My heart and thoughts go out to you all. This is such a tragedy. Words can never be enough to get you through this ,only time can begin to heal you and that is it.Jessica is shining in a different light now.May she rest in peace forever. I love her so much and my heart is broken. God Bless You.
