“ I have so many memories with my baby boy. The one I hold by my heartland will never forget. The face he made when I told him open or eyes look who's here its Jenny. If u don't know she's him girlfriend. That was priceless and I thank her and her mom for the joy and happiness that brought my son. To have both kids see each other for the first time in a long time and the last one it handled all the shit they were both going dealing with. And with that he left us with knowing he was at pease.although it hurts and killing me I know in my heart he well. Now my mind I keep thinking why . I'm mom I take care of everything
