“ Mama, today makes one month since you grew your wings 🧡 I hope you've made peace with yourself and have found grandma and grandpa 🌻 you know the love is still as strong as ever & I think I'm ready for you to visit me again in my dreams whenever you're ready (hopefully I won't get scared again and wake up). In the meantime, I'll try to build up the courage to listen to your voicemails to hear your voice 🧡🌻 I love you and miss you mama

“ I get my genuineness from you. I get my sailor mouth from you. I get my hard work ethic from you. I get my giving heart from you. I hear I got your smile too. I am blessed God chose you as my mom. I am blessed that you raised us to be strong and independent but loving and hardworking at the same time. I am thankful for your influence. I am thankful for your laugh. I'm thankful for the many times you let me vent, the many times we cried watching movies together 😭. I'm thankful for you. Period. I'll continue to make you proud. Hearing “your mother did an awesome job raising you” now means so much more because I know I'm honoring you. One of a kind, Ma. I love you to the moon and back, in this life and the next, from today until infinity. 💛

“ Where do I start...I've been all over the place with my emotions since you passed! I've been beating myself up for not making it to Matthew's gender reveal cause you were here, in the Bay Area so close to me. My Auntie Jean always kept it real, I loved that the most about you. Family was super important to you and you made sure your kids and everyone around knew that! Sharing your last name means a lot to me and I will forever represent the name Giles til I take on my own family name. Auntie I Love You forever and you will never be forgotten! Like my Dad says; Giles4Life ❤️
