

Lowell Wesley Gaines

March 19, 1952 - January 2, 2017

Lowell Wesley Gains beloved Husband, Father, Grandpa...Musician, Singer Songwriter, passed away on Monday, January 2, 2017, at home with his Loving family by his side. Please share with them your expressions of remembrance on his page.

There are no services currently being planned.

“Where words fail, music speaks.”

— Hans Christian Andersen

Tribute Wall

“ Lowell Wesley Gaines

September 15, 2022 at 09:34 PM

“ I am sad to hear this. Lowell had done many great things for my mom and brother. May the angel rest in peace.

Brandi - January 15, 2017 at 07:25 PM

“ Alyse Miranda lit a candle in memory of Lowell Wesley Gaines

Alyse Miranda - January 09, 2017 at 07:34 PM

“ This is such a sad time for all of us who loved Lowell. All my life he has been there my big brother and like a Dad, I looked up to him with so much love and respect. He was patient with me when I started to play the guitar he taught me some chords and then we started singing together again he showed such great patience with me telling me when to sing, he would say okay Beck sing just the chorus and I will do the rest. As I learned to play the guitar and sing on my own I could see the look of pride he had in me. Lowell went with me when I bought my guitar he helped to pick it out and to this day I remember him playing it and singing a song I'm not sure of the name of the song but the words were I sold my guitar to the Bakers son so I could buy another one. It was the perfect song because we bought my guitar at a pawn shop. My favorite memories growing up was sitting around the kitchen table and listening to my Brothers playing music and all of us singing. Music was like a language that we all knew that brought us all together with so much love and provided so many good times and parties I remember how my heart swelled with pride when I walked a little in front of a float at the Clovis Parade clapping my hands to the crowd getting them all revved up as Lowell played music for the crowd. I know this was a big highlight in his life to play music at THE CLOVIS PARADE. I'm sure Lowell is now playing music with his Dad and Brother Everett while our Mother. and Eddy and Roberta tap their feet and sing along. So sing and play that music my beloved Brother Lowell and soon we will be together again

---

Becky Gaines - January 08, 2017 at 07:46 PM

DG

“ Lowell was also a loving brother to Barbara Terry, Rebecca Gaines and Paul Gaines as well as numerous nieces and nephews. He was deeply loved and will always be in our hearts.

---

Debi Gaines - January 08, 2017 at 09:58 AM