Though Mary only went to school for about a year she was a very hard worker and self taught. She was a professional dancer and won awards with her brothers. She went on to raise children, even ones that were not hers. She was a housekeeper and friend to many. She retired from work but never stopped working. Every day she worked doing something. The hardest thing for Mary to do was learn to take a break.

When Mary met her husband Mateo he was in the military. She had to deal with the fact that he could be taken away from her at any moment had he decided to re-enlist or got drafted. Thank God they had each other to get through hard times including the fear of losing one another. He never left her side til the day he went to heaven. Now they are back together again with their son Tony and daughter Roseanna. They finally got their happily EVER-AFTER!
