“ My brother Anthony aka woahdown was a truly remarkable human being. His legacy will live on through us all.. we carry him in our memories and with our spirits.. This has been a tremendous loss and pain, we all feel within ourselves... We share that same pain... I remember when we were little, I was always taking care of Anthony.. I was like a second mom to him... Always feeding him and always changing his diapers.... We grew up together until we got separated by foster care... A couple years later he went to go live with us.... I aged out of the system.. Anthony went to live with me and he was old enough. He lived with me for a few years.. I could always tell my brother anything and everything... Most of the time he would stay quiet and listen.... Sometimes he will tell me straight up " I ain't trying to hear that right now neen.." at the time I thought, he didn't care to hear it.. But that wasn't the case... He didn't like that I had a really hard time in life... He always try to make me feel better The best way he knew how.. bluntz&brews ... 🍷 He would tell me "stimulate yo mind Craig"... There is not even 10 minutes that go by, when I'm not thinking about my brother... He's on my mind and in my heart 98% of my day.... I can still hear his voice telling me " Be cool neen. I got you. Done even trip. One love baby." Aouuuuu... 🍷
👤👤♀ I wish, with every fiber of my being, that I can bring my brother back.... I feel robbed of the time that we could have spent together... And I regret every moment not showing up for him... I know that regret can't go with me into the future... I will take a lesson in that simple fact... Cherish the ones you truly love. While there is still time.. because we never know when God is going to call us home.... A-Town for example, no one ever expected him to leave us so soon... But it was his time.... Now we all heavy duty every single day to do an honor of Anthony, that is, be there for your family, It's not only blood related, The family is what you make it.. show up for each other and show out for one another... At the end of the day.. That's all we really have left.. because we can't take nothing with us. When it's our time to go.... The only thing we have is memories after that.. said was so much love and respect ... I love you all.. I love you Anthony.. save a spot for us.. give everybody a hug and a kiss.. and sing to Valerie for me. One love brother
