She exemplified a life of faith and courage with some of the hardships endured through life, including a world wide depression and a world war. She was a champion of learning. Patricia always shared her faith, salvation and her personal relationship with Jesus to others. She would want to share that He saved her, has a personal relationship with Him and is with Him celebrating eternal life today, and she wants everyone to know about this free and wonderful gift of love, available to all who seek it.
