“ A letter to my husband

So this letter is just to let you know that I LOVE YOU Bob! and I feel lucky that you were a big part of my life. Marriage is sometimes hard, but we went through a lot of things together and our love was always strong. Your love for me was what made me pass over all the difficult times and I will always be grateful for this. I am glad that you came into my life and I hope you will always remember how much I loved you. Sometimes we take love for granted, but the truth is that love is a precious gift and we never forgot how lucky we were to have and love each other.

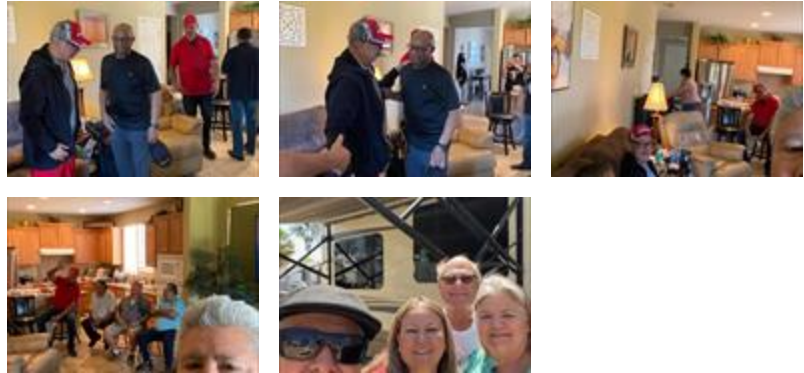

Thank you babe for all the smiles you put on my face, for all the hugs that melt my heart, for all the love I saw in your eyes! I know in my heart that our love grew stronger over the years and that we spent our entire life filling it with memories and enjoying every moment of it. You were the reason why I believed in love. You now rest in peace and I will take it from here, you left me four beautiful children to watch over and I promise you we will keep your memories alive.

“ Bobby was always happy and full of smiles. I babysat him when he was two years old and after his mom passed Uncle John would leave him, Larry and Lisa with me when he would visit Oxnard. I will miss you always Bobby. RIP my precious cousin.

“ Robert was a wonderful person. He fought a long and courageous battle with cancer for nine years. Despite the challenges he faced, Robert remained positive and never lost hope. He was an inspiration to us all.

I will always remember Robert as good friend and caring person.

May your soul rest in peace, Robert.

“ There are a million things to say about my uncle bob, but at the same time, it is hard to find the right words to explain his significant role in my life. In the photo, he drove from California to fort lewis to visit me and my little family. Back then I used to think, "All for me??. Now I understand how much he cared. When I moved to Italy, it was hard to accept that it would be harder to see any family. When my Uncle Bob was officially diagnosed, I was always worried that I wouldn't have a chance to see him again. During my time in Europe, nostalgia took over often, and when I would smell barbecue, I would instantly think of him. I always wished he was near, just for one more barbecue, one more tri-tip, and one more visit with him and my tia Belinda. I would hold onto hope that he would be well enough until I moved back to the United States, and he was. I got to spend time with him when I visited California. he looked different from his illness. But was so much the same. He still woke up early, had his sarcastic sense of humor, a memorized map of Walmart, the quickest routes to places, and his deep love for breakfast foods. As I have gotten older, I have realized that the term home is more than just a place, it is also a feeling. And those days in California with my uncle Bob and Tia Belinda felt like home.

Thank you, uncle bob, for fighting so hard for so many years so that I could see you again. For being a part of the village that contributed to who I am today. For taking me to Disneyland and so many other places. For being a coach, supporter, uncle, and friend. For making the best breakfast potatoes and always being concerned if I had eaten any lately. For not getting offended when I called you Uncle Vietnam. For you and Tia Belinda always being consistent and welcoming. And most importantly for always loving me.

I've been missing you ever since I moved away, and I will for the rest of my days.

Until we meet again,
"Jenny"
