“ Happy 63rd Birthday Dad. There is not one day that passes that I don't think of you. I miss you everyday and wish you were home so we could celebrate this special day with you eating pie, doing scratchers and just surrounding you with love. I love you so much dad and it is still unreal to me that you are not here in the flesh to hug you, kiss you, talk to you or just see you in the den. There will always be a piece of my heart that is empty and no man will ever be able to fill that void in my life. Today we will celebrate you and all of the 62 years of your life you were here on earth and now your 63rd year of being in heaven. "What I would give to clasp his hand, His happy face to see, To hear his voice, and see his smile that means so much to me. The rolling stream of life rolls on. But still the vacant chair recalls the love, the voice, the smile of my dad who once sat there." Happy Birthday My Angel!

“ Words can not express the heartache I feel for your family. You are all such lovely people and I adore you. Martinez family, please know that I am praying for you all. I've also asked my grandma, a true prayer warrior, to give it all she has. God will definitely show you the way to smiling again. I know this experience will change you forever. I hope in the days to come you can remember all the good times you shared with your father and all the love he gave you throughout the years. He is not gone. I know he will be watching over you forever.

“ On Behalf of the family of Rudy, I would like to thank everyone who attended services in the celebration of my fathers life. We would also like to thank everyone who visited our home to pay their respects and those who took the time to provide meals to my parents home during the past few weeks. We are truly grateful and appreciate everyone being there for us during this difficult time. We will also like to thank Stephanie from the Chapel of Light and the staff , as well as Mountain View for working with us and providing a service my father would be proud of. Thank you all and much love.

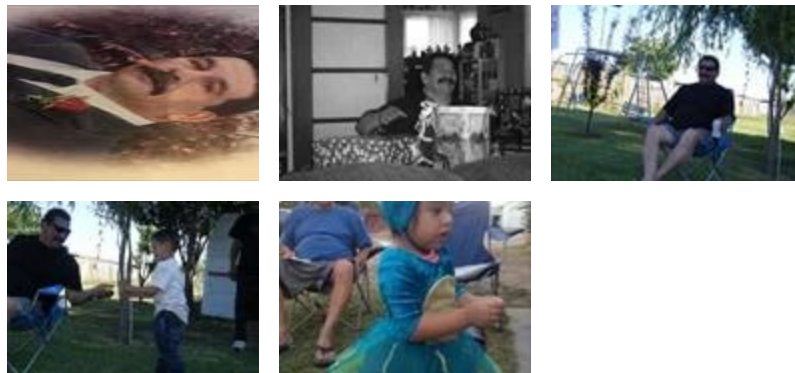

Love,

“Dad there is so much more I wish I could have said to you. What I wouldn't do to have one last conversation or a moment with you to say goodbye. The selfish side of me still wishes you were here, but I know that you're in a better place and are watching over us all from up above. I'm comforted by the fact that you aren't in pain and I know that you left this earth the way you have always planned. Dad, today was especially tough. The kids went back to school and when I walked into your house this morning, I wish you were there to greet them with your favorite jingle. Hearing you sing, "The boys are back in town", like you always did (when they walked through the door) would have been perfect...I can still hear your voice and see that loving smile on your face. Not to many people were fortunate enough to know the softer side of you that we did. Dad I will always remember your love for the great outdoors, you were our real life Smokey the Bear. I also remember your love for gambling(something I enjoy too) and although we weren't the biggest jackpot winners we hit the jackpot with having you as a father. I remember you on brighter days and recall mom getting mad that you took longer than she did to get ready. As you would say, "You were a handsome son of a gun". Trying to decide which one of your many Hawaiian shirts, slacks and shiny shoes or pair of Levi's and crisp clean tee topped with a pair of black Ray Bans must have made for a difficult decision. Dad thank you for giving me life and for working so hard to support your family. I know you always said you weren't afraid to die, but were afraid of leaving my mom alone. Please find peace in knowing that we are here to pick up where you left off and ensure that she continues to live her to the fullest just the way you planned. I love you dad and I know you love me too. Now it's time for you to finally rest in peace with all of our loved ones up above and know one day I'll be there too.

“Dad there is so much left to say. The selfish part of me wishes you were still here. I'm comforted by the fact that you aren't suffering and I know you left this earth the way you would have wanted to. Today was bittersweet, the kids went back to school. I know you're watching over them from up above. I wish you were at home to greet them with your favorite jingle, like you did when I dropped the boys of Wednesday morning. I remember you singing The Boys are Back in Town. I can still hear your voice and will cherish that memory forever. I'll always remember your love for the great outdoors. Thank you for teaching me how to fish, chop and stack wood, rake leaves, raise animals, wash cars and your canoe and how to be patient (as we weren't allowed to move the fishing pole or make noise that would scare off the fish during our many fishing trips). I'm comforted by the many memories I shared with you and will always remember you at your best. You always loved looking and smelling good when you left the house. I remember mom getting impatient waiting for you to get dressed and watching you trying to decide which one of your many Hawaiian shirts, black Ray bans, Levi's or crisp clean tee you were going to wear that day. Dad thank you for giving me life and for working hard to provide for our entire family. I love you and know you love me too! Now it's time for you to Rest In Peace.

“Dad I still can't believe you're gone, but I know you are in a better place. I just want you to know that I will always love you and was blessed to have you in my life for 33 years. I was so lucky to have so many loving memories of you and will cherish each one in my heart until my dying day. I am proud that my daughter was able to get to know you for a short time and I will continue to share your legacy of you with her as she grows. I know you were always worried about mom being taken care of, and I assure you we have all come together to make sure your wish is fulfilled. I know you are now our personal guardian angel looking after mom, my siblings and all your grandchildren. Although you are not here in the flesh, I feel your spirit around me every day and know you would guide me in the right direction in my path in life. I will continue to be strong for you and have faith in knowing that one day we will meet again and all be one big happy family.

This is a poem that made me think of you....

*I thought of you today,
But that is nothing new
I thought of you yesterday
And will tomorrow, too.
I think of you in silence
And make no outward show.
For what it meant to lose you
Only those who love you know.
Remembering you is easy,
I do it every day.
It's the heartache of losing you
That will never go away.
I Love you Dad
